IT IS PERMANENT.

The Treaty of Peace Between China and Japan.

THAT IS MR. FOSTER'S OPINION.

We Have Just Returned From China, Where He Acted as Special Adviser to the Chinese Government, and Should Know What He Is Talking About—He Declined a Steady Position.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster arrived in Washington yesterday from China, where he has taken a conspicuous part in the diplomatic branch of the China-Japan conflict. He is fatigued with his long journey, but is otherwise in vigorous health, notwithstanding the hardships incident to the close of the eastern war. Mr. Foster brings a fund of information on the status of the Japan-China struggle and the interesting details of the peace negotiations in which he took a personal part.

Permanent Peace.—In a statement to inquiries Mr. Foster made a statement in which he said that there was good reason to expect permanent peace between Japan and China as a result of the action of Shimoneski. The terms demanded by Japan may, he said, under the circumstances be regarded as reasonable, especially in view of the retrocession of the Liao Tong peninsula. The treaty had been observed and carried out by China with scrupulous good faith. Her conduct in this respect was creditable a very favorable impression in Japan.

The Law Just Constrained through Russia's influence will enable China to pay the first two installments of the indemnity.

These two installments over half of the indemnity and the balance, extending over six years, will be a comparatively easy burden for the Chinese government if any skill is shown in the management of the imperial revenues. The country has great resources at hand never yet called into play.

At Yellow Pine, Ala., Alfred Jones, in a quarrel about a woman, killed Jim Henderson, the murderer escaped.

The American Wire company, Cleveland, did not resume Monday as proposed because none of the 1,500 strikers applied for work.

At Zion, Ky., Charles Kelly, 16, deliberately shot and killed Walter Watson. Kelly claims it was an act of self-defense.

At Louisville, Ky., John D. Young, in an altercation on the street, drew a knife and cut Phiney Fassett's throat. Young was arrested.

At Albion, Mich., Ernest Kussoo, 16, struck Gustave Nause, 12, with a stone paling, killing him instantly. The boy had quarreled.

The body of the 17-year-old daughter of Daniel Shanks, living near Marshall, Ind., was found murdered in the woods. The excitement is intense.

At Evansville, Tenn., says he would accept the nomination for vice president. He believes Kentucky and Tennessee will go Republican.

"Five Miles Slough," a peat bog swampland containing 3,500 acres, near Kokomo, Ind., is on fire and can not be extinguished by natural means.

The Sunday closing gun battles struck Springfield, O., hard. Stores and news stores are on the list for next Sunday. The liberal element is redhot.

Rev. Phillips of Durham, Pa., has lost a leg and will probably die as the result of one of his young lady friends sticking him with a pin. Blood poison set in.

The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton has absorbed the Cincinnati, Dayton and Ironton and the Cincinnati, Dayton and Chicago railroads. The consolidated capital stock is $16,000,000.

In Chicago, Ill., a man named E. Cole shot and attempted to kill G. C. McLean and ran, pursued by a mob. He turned and fired into his pursuers, seriously wounded three citizens, and was shot dead by Officer Rosenthal.

The Improved Order of the Knights of Pythias will be perfected in Detroit by representatives of the lodges which seceded from the Knights of Pythias on account of the refusal of the supreme lodge to allow work to be done in other than the English language.

The Improved Order of the Knights of Pythias will be perfected in Detroit by representatives of the lodges which seceded from the Knights of Pythias on account of the refusal of the supreme lodge to allow work to be done in other than the English language.

Entirely Unexpected and is not yet understood. British residents in China and Japan are very bitter in criticism of their government for its abstention in the matter. They allege that its failure to join with the other powers in rearranging the terms of peace has lost to their country much prestige and influence in the far east, and in science and control at Peking.

All the countries diplomatically concerned in the contest the United States has come out of it with better grace than any other. From the first her interest has been recognized by both belligerents as purely disinterested, her only desire being to render such service as would bring about

An Honorable and Lasting Peace.

The conduct of the state department in its very delicate position with both combatants has been marked by good judgment and few mistakes, and the good offices of our ministers and consuls have been very useful and are highly appreciated by both.

Like Home Best.

Being asked why the invitation to remain in China as the adviser of the government, Mr. Foster said that he had spent the greater portion of his life in foreign lands, and while his residence had been generally pleasant one, he had found no country equal to his native land, and desired to spend the remainder of his life in his own country. He confessed that if the invitation had come five or ten years earlier he would probably not have declined it.

EX-QUEEN LIL TO WED

A Japanese Count and Thus Hopes to Overthrow the Republic.

TACOMA, July 9.—The Morning Union has received private advices from Honolulu that Queen Lil and her following are plotting to form an alliance with Japan by her marriage to a Japanese count. The Japanese have 30,000 residents on the island, and with this new alliance it is claimed the Hawaiian republic could be overthrown.

The officials of the republic are alarmed at the number of the Japanese, and have recently brought in two shipsloads of Azores.

Killed His Father-in-Law.

LIVINGSTON MANOR, N. Y., July 9.—John Townsend, 65, was murdered by his son-in-law, George Brethernak. Townsend found his son-in-law engaged in moving the grass on his property and ordered him out of the field. Failing to drive him away, Townsend cut a stick and threatened to whip him. Brethernak suddenly drew a pistol, and placing it just at the old man's forehead, fired. He then fell down. Brethernak then came to the village and gave himself up. He is an ex-United States marine.

Motor Car Wrecked.

CHICAGO, July 9.—Five men were badly injured and several others bruised by a wreck on the Paulina street electric car line. The car was running at a high rate of speed and when mangled or struck jumped the track and dashed into the curb breaking the iron bar to pieces. The accident is supposed to have been caused by an obstruction on the rails.

Fatal Kick.

PITTSBURGH, W. Va., July 9.—G. W. Castle of Williamson, a prominent businessman and politician, was kicked by a vicious horse and it is reported that he can not recover.

Signed the Scale.

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—At the conference between the iron manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association the bar and plate scale for the entire Pittsburgh district was signed without opposition. The scale is the same as that signed by the Mahoning and Shenango manufacturers.

This famous Standard scale is used for serious diseases, such as weak heart, etc. It is made of fine brass and is easily cleaned and polished. It is a safe and reliable instrument.

The affidavit was sworn out by a Washington. He claims that the potatoes were taken by "Red" Horne, but with another man, disposed of them at Delphos, but that Horne pleaded not guilty to the charge, and the case will be tried to-morrow.

Last night three young colored girls named Maud Cook, Zora Williams and Emma Milton were ushered into a wine room at Adam Zimmerman's saloon on east Market street
by two young white fellows. Lovell Golds, Andrew Fountains and Geo.
McGee, colored, followed the five into the wine room and started a "rough house," which terminated upon the entrance of Policeman Baker.

The two white men escaped, but the three colored girls and three young colored men were arrested.

The girls were released on bail, and all six were before the mayor this morning, charged with disorderly conduct. All pleaded guilty and were fined $8.60 each, which they promised to pay.

KENTON BONDS.

Mis-Statements Regarding the Purchase

Of Fraudulent Bonds by the City Bank
—H. B. Langman, Representing Broker
Lewis, Tailes.

A dispatch was sent out from Dayton last night giving an interview with broker Z. T. Lewis, an account of whose bond transactions has been already published, in which he stated he had yesterday closed out $15,000 worth of City of Kenton bonds to the City Bank of Lima. The genuineness of the bonds, it seems, is now in question, and a Times-Democrat man called at the City bank to-day and learned that the bonds had not been bought by that institution. The bank had been offered the bonds, but would only take subject to inspection and approval. The bonds have not yet been received at the bank, but will be thoroughly examined and submitted to the Kenton officials.
If they are genuine they will be taken as per the agreement, but if not they will be refused, also per agreement.

H. B. Langman, who was negotiating the deal, stated to a Times-Democrat representative that the bonds were refunding bonds and not school bonds, as stated in the dispatch from Dayton, and that they would probably be here this afternoon, together with the necessary papers to prove their genuineness. In regard to the other bonds, which were found to be forgery, Mr. Langman said Lewis was an innocent holder. Lewis, he said, had been in poor health for some time and had been advised by his physicians to take much-needed rest some time ago, and, while the present trouble had been a great strain upon him, he was satisfied he would come out all right, both physically and financially.

Mr. Lewis has a number of friends and acquaintances here who have a great deal of confidence in him.

Concerning the Bike.

The next thing after the bicycle blower costume is established with the changing fashions in this dress. There will be morning and evening bicycle costumes, and those for brides and widows, after the manner of all other women's fashions—Toledo Blade.

If a bicycle is a "vehicle," what about roller skates? A Chicago man has invented a "boulevard skate," which is clearly related to the bicycle, and seems to form a missing link between two modes of locomotion.—Chicago Record.

Mrs. J. G. Carlisle and Mrs. Daniel Lamont have taken to the wheel, and bicycling may thus be said to have become a cabinet question.—New York Recorder.

Rev. Benjamin Stevens, of Hannibal, Mo., who is ninety-four, is talking of buying a bicycle.—Boston Globe.

Last summer one of our grand children was sick with a severe bowel trouble. Our doctor's remedies had failed, then we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which gave very speedy relief. We regard it as the best medicine ever put on the market for bowel complaints.—Mrs. E. G. Gregory, Fredericktown, Mo. This certainly is the best medicine ever put on the market for dysentery, summer complaint, colic and cholera infantum in children. It never fails to give prompt relief when used in reasonable time and the plain printed directions are followed. Many mothers have expressed their sincere gratitude for the cures it has effected. The Darky Done Kick the 'Squire.

Last Saturday a darky who lives in Stone county, came to our city and the boys told him about Lumpkin advertising for a negro to kick him.

The negro at once came to the 'squire and offered his services. The 'squire was surprised and said that a negro in Springfield had done the job, but the boys were not satisfied with his statement, and held the 'squire while the darky did the kicking.—Billings.

It was bright moonlight, and they walked through the woods, and presently they came to the wishing tree, with its two trunks growing from one root.

"If we pass through the wishing tree," she said, "and wish us go, the fairies will give us the wish of our hearts."

So they went through, hand in hand, because the way was rough. As she passed out of it a bramble caught her dress, and he stooped to disentangle it, but the folds of her gown were electric, and his hands trembled.

"How tiresome it is!" she said. "I believe that bramble will never let me go."

"Can you blame it?" he asked, looking up at her, and she turned her face away. "They will do it. 'A whole month,' instead, 'and we young you every month.'"

Chicago long ago put electric motors upon her elevated railways, thus doing away with smoke, cinders, steam and noise, but New York city has no electric motors upon her elevated roads.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE®

day! When did such good fortune ever before come to a poor secretary?

"To a humble companion? No, I don't mean that. But it has been pleasant."

They walked in silence to the little gate that divided the woods from the grounds. Here they stopped, and she said, looking at him for a moment half shyly, half proudly: "I mean I should like you to see the garden. All the smart people are coming tomorrow to keep the horses' birthday."

He smiled, and she laughed. "Oh, we needn't go in sight of the house. The grounds are big enough."

He flushed and stammered in words denial of the thought she had read in him that he might be seen with the company might compromise her, and together they walked under the arching trees to the old lawn where the sound

"This is where the tenants dance, I believe," she said, "and all the grand people dance with the cottage folks, which seems to me rather silly, for I am sure each set would rather dance with themselves. Lord Halibut is coming. Will you be here?"

"I will certainly come if Lord Halibut does. May I dance with you?"

She laughed. "I don't think you know what dancing on turf is like."

"Let us try now," he said.

He laid his arm on her waist. The next moment her hand was on his arm, and they were whirling down the lawn toward the sundial.

"What foolish people we are!" she said breathlessly, and half moved to pause. But his arm held her closer, and they walked to the end of the lawn, past the sundial and into the shade of the great copper beech, and there, before she had time to move her hand from his arm, both his arms were round her, and he was kissing her on her soft, flushed cheek. She shrank a little, and then laid her face softly against his, and put her hand up to his neck.

"Ah!" he said, "the wish is granted. I have my heart's desire."

"And I," she whispered softly.

"You do love me, don't you?"

She clasped her hands behind his neck and hung back, looking at him at arm's length, with half ashamed, half laughing eyes.

"Oh, yes, I love you, Lord Halibut," she said.

He put his hands up and laid them on hers. "Then you know?"

She laughed again. "I have known all the time. Your handkerchief at least was not ashamed of your name."

Not one thought that was traitor to his love for her stirred in him at her confession. Lord Halibut knew true love when he saw it.

He looked up to where, through the trees, the big red house showed its twisted, old fashioned chimneys and said:

"My name is Lavender. You are Miss Verinder, I suppose?"

She looked at him quickly.

"I am Miss Verinder's humble companion. My name is Smith."

"We are comrades in servitude," he said. "I am Lord Halibut's secretary. You walk in the woods sometimes. Then it isn't goodby. Do they let you come out often?"

"I am my own mistress at present," she said. "A lot of people will be coming on the 25th for the horses' coming of age. They give a grand entertainment to the tenants. Lord Halibut is to be there. What is he like?"

"Oh!" said the young man indefinitely, "he's not a bad sort of fellow. There's some talk of their families wishing him to marry the heiress. The estates go very well together. But he's never even seen her. He's been so much abroad, you know."

"I don't believe the heiress will have him," the girl said shriveling and turned away with her poor little dog in her arms.

Now it was quite clear that she ought not to have walked in the wood—at least, not so soon as the next day, or if she walked there the next day she ought not to have chosen the very hour when poor Troll had met with his misfortune. But to the bored man may be pardoned, and, as for Lord Halibut's secretary, he had a right, one may suppose, to amuse himself. And that meeting was not the last. How could it be?

Then you are—you are not Miss Smith?"

Her dainty chin went up. "Now, do I look like it?" she said.

"But why?"

"The landscape painter's part," she answered, "seems to be universally attractive!"—Photographic Journal.

The Posts and Sunshine

One might fancy that there is some natural affinity between genius and the sun, seeing that so many gifted ones are attracted in such a peculiar manner to the source of light and heat. Shelley loved to expose his small round head to its intense ardor and intinctly said of his burning strains on the roof of his house, near Leghorn, unscrupled from the peeling rains of an Italian sun—that sun from whose supposed malign influence even the natives shrink. Byron, whose early home was in the bleak north of Scotland, was no less of a sun worshiper. "I am always most religious upon a sunshiny day," he writes, "as if there was some association between the sun and the poet's mind."

Citizen Train.

George Francis Train sat in state in Madison Square park the other day, and as he lolled on a bench musing peacably a man came along who had been drinking. There are few persons on the earth who think the sage of the square an easy mark for their shafts of wit.

"Kin you tell me?" asked the lurching chap, "why you are crazy?"

George Francis looked at him sternly for a moment. "Yes," he answered, "I am pursued by so many fools who ask questions."

"Don't sensible folks ever talk to you?" went on the man.

"Never," replied the philosopher.

"You have answered your own question," he went on. "If you need the information really, you put yourself down as a silly person. If you're not bright enough to see the point, you are convicted of being one of the class you mention. In any event you're a fool." And the half-dazed individual sauntered away.

"You put the handcuffs on this man, didn't you?" asked the attorney for the defense.

"Why, sir?"

"Did you do that? Was he resisting or attempting to escape at that time?"

"No, sir."

"He was walking along quietly enough, wasn't he?"

"Yes."

"Then why did you handcuff him?"

"He was using vulgar language."

"But why did you put those things on his wrists?"

"I couldn't put them on his mouth."

"What did he do then?"

"He tried to run."

"And what did you do?"

"I broke his jaw for you."

"Why did you break his jaw?"

"Well, I couldn't break his leg, could I?"

Marriage of Mr. Gus C. Weil and Miss Fannie Kuhn.

The pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kuhn at 125 south McEachen street was the scene last evening of an extremely happy event in the marriage of their charming daughter, Miss Fannie, to Mr. Gus C. Weil, at 6:30 o'clock. The residence was beautifully decorated for the occasion and a handsome canopy of silk covered the place occupied by the couple as Rabbi Hurshburg, of Ft. Wayne, performed the ceremony, after the pretty service of the Jewish church.

The bride never looked more handsome than she did in the dress of white silk which she wore last evening.

After the ceremony was performed an elaborate feast was participated in by the guests, who were confined to the immediate relatives.

The presents were numerous and costly, and large numbers of congratulatory telegrams were received from their friends and acquaintances from out of the city.
